Justification

We are sending you, as previously promised, our analysis of the publication which you sent us. Owing to the increasing number of works we receive, it is rather difficult for us to comply with the two weeks previously allowed for analysis. Please excuse the delay that may occur in sending you the document proving our analysis.

The letters in column P indicate our evaluation index : 3 -- very important : 2 -- important : 1 -- interesting. The evaluative index in no case constitutes a value judgment on the document concerned, but only a first classification to keep the reader from drowning in a flood of bibliography. For each of its various keywords, each document possesses a different evaluative index. A document classed as "very important" is one which either evidences a scholarly in - depth treatment, or presents the state of the question very well, or is particularly provocative. The subjective aspect entering into such an evaluation should be considered as well as the document's possible depreciation in value with the passage of time.

The more complex relations between the key words are established by our computer, which also automatically translates into English. German, Spanish and Italian those key-words first fed to it in French.

Thank you again for the service you have rendered us, which we hope will, in turn, aid in the further dissemination of your work throughout the 80 countries reached by RIC.
