STUDENT LOANS

by Grace Dalton

Many students seem to be unaware that Southeastern Seminary holds funds which have been given specifically to help students who encounter unexpected financial difficulties. The funds are limited; but Mike Scarborough, Dean of Students, says that one of the chief goals of his office is that no student have to withdraw because of a lack of funds.

Funds can be issued in emergency grants or in loans. The schedule for repaying loans is negotiable, although beginning monthly payments as soon as possible is advisable. Dean Scarborough and the Student Aid Committee give careful consideration to any student who applies, although grants and loans are approved on the basis of greatest need.

Some students seem to be reluctant, for a variety of reasons, to ask for help. The number of jobs in the community which can be coordinated with class schedules is being reduced by the current economic situation. This trend is expected to continue and worsen.

Dean Scarborough urges any student who knows of another student who is in need to give his that information. He will investigate and give whatever help is available.

Saturday Morning Hours Restored

The Library is now open on a regular basis during 9:00AM to 5:00PM on Saturdays. The restoration of Saturday morning hours is due to an increase in the use of the Library during recent months. It represents an attempt on the part of the full-time staff, which is still short four persons, to meet the needs of the students.

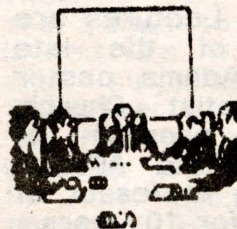

Previously, Saturday hours were noon to 5:00PM except twice each semester, preceding and during exams, when the Library was open for the full day.

Students are encouraged to take advantage of the additional Saturday hours on a regular basis.

Graduating Seniors

Orders are now being taken in the Baptist Book Store for graduation regalia and graduation announcements. Orders must be received by February 15th. Payment needs to be made at the time orders are placed.

STUDENT COUNCIL

VOICE OF STUDENTS

The purpose of the Student Council stated in its constitution reads: "It shall be the purpose of the Student Council to : a) promote the general welfare of all students, b) stimulate participation in on campus and off campus activities and ministries which are vital for the total well-being of students and the communities, and c) assist the faculty and administration at all times in the planning, preparation, and execution of those activities which require the cooperation of the Student Council."

The Student Council exists to provide communication between the administration and students, faculty and students and among students. Information about each office of the Student Council will be in future issues of The Enquiry and the Newsline.

In addition to these articles, the offices and duties will be posted on the Student Council bulletin board across from the post office in Ledford Center.

Please consider now what office you would be interested in being nominated to fill. If you have any questions or comments please see any student council member.

 CONFERENCE
 MARCH 19-21

HESTER TO DELIVER ADAMS LECTURES

Wake Forest, NC -- Dr. Richard Hester, professor of pastoral care and psychology of religion, will present the 1991 Adams Lectures on Preaching at Southeastern. The lectures will take place February 12-14 at 10:00 AM in Binkley Chapel.

Hester's themes for the series is "Our Families and Our Theology". He will present three lectures which explore the influence family relationships have on responding to God. He has titled the lectures as follows: "Hands that Rock the Cradle," "The Terrible Burden of the Ideal Family" and "When the Bough Breaks".

This is the final semester for Hester at Southeastern after 16 years on the faculty. He will assume the position of executive director of the Georgia Association of Pastoral Care.

The Adams Lectures are in memory of the late Theodore F. Adams, pastor of First Baptist Church, Richmond, VA, president of the Baptist World Alliance and a visiting professor at Southeastern for 10 years.

INCLEMENT WEATHER POLICY AND THE LIBRARY

During days when conditions, such as snow or ice, have resulted in an announcement by the President or Vice resident for Internal Affairs that administrative offices will be closed or delayed in opening, "the Library will make every effort to be open for part of the day with limited services. Due to the Library having normal hours of operation in the evening and on Saturday, it is understood that the Librarian will make certain decisions regarding opening and closing times which supplement this policy and are in harmony with it. (Personnel Manual, 4.11)

Information as to opening will be available through the switchboard and will be posted on the front door as soon as feasible.

MURDER IN THE STACKS CONTINUES!

by Jo Philbeck

Mistreatment and abuses resulting in shortened "lives" occur constantly in our homes, offices and libraries. Often the perpetrators are otherwise intelligent persons who are perhaps careless, unobservant or ignorant concerning ways to care for and preserve books and other valuable information sources.

"Holmes" and "Watson" track down the culprits in "Murder in the Stacks", a videotape being shown periodically on a television screen in the leisure area outside the Audio-visual Office near the card catalog. When not being shown there, the tape is available by requesting the Audio-visual Center.

Learn how to care for your books at home or church as well as in the library and help prevent unwarranted deterioration.

Professors may arrange for the fifteen-minute program to be shown in the classroom via campus closed-circuit TV facilities.

CHAPLAINS ON FRONT LINES IN BATTLE

Atlanta (BP) -- As Operation Desert Shield became Operation Desert Storm, chaplains moved to the front lines of conflict and comfort.

Chaplains do not carry weapons, but they are "going to be right where the fighting is," says Charles T. Clanton, Army Forces Command Staff chaplain at Georgia's Fort McPherson.

Southern Baptists account for 155 of the about 550 chaplains serving in the Middle East.

"Sometimes chaplains go into combat," says Clanton, a colonel who spent two years in Vietnam as an Army chaplain. "I went with one troop wherever it went." "When they were attacked, I was with them. What you do then is keep your head down."

Clanton, who has been an Army chaplain for 25 years, points out that military chaplains "are not Casper Milktoasts." He says chaplains have to pass the same physical tests required of their troops.

During lulls in the fighting, chaplains are involved intensely in counseling troops. After the battle, Clanton says chaplains conduct memorial services and visit the wounded in hospitals. Military chaplains must be endorsed by their religious group, but they are employed and assigned by the armed forces.

The Chaplains Commission of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board endorses about 1,100 military chaplains.

Chaplaincy Students

The Home Mission Board is sponsoring a chaplains seminary conference on campus February 18-20, 1991. Students in the chaplaincy program are invited to attend. The Home Mission Board representatives would like to meet with you during the time they are on campus. Please come by or call Judy Autry at extension 315 as soon as possible.

Everyone is invited to come eat!!

REAL PEOPLE 101 by RUTH SNAP

by Doug Buttram

Most people associated with Southeastern have at one time or another eaten at the Corner. There they have met Ruth Snap, a multi-faceted individual. She is servant, jokester, conversationalist and friend to all.

One of Ruth's neighbors, Kathleen Chandley, opened the Corner in 1980. Ruth has been working with Kathleen since the beginning.

Ruth remembers that the Corner's relationship with Southeastern began immediately. At that time, Simmons Dorm was a woman's dorm. Two days before the grand opening, some women sat on the front steps of the Corner. When Ruth asked them what they were waiting for, they replied, "Ice cream!"

A collection of baby pictures on the refrigerator at the Corner reflects the many local and seminary folks Ruth and Kathleen have befriended. Ruth especially appreciates students who pop in after they have graduated just to say hello.

Ruth is always ready to share an opinion with customers and is rarely at a loss for words. But, one of my favorite experiences at the Corner was to see Ruth absolutely speechless.

One day a couple of other students and I were eating when a woman and her teen-age daughter enters the store. They went directly to Ruth at the counter. Nothing seemed out of the ordinary, but it was soon clear the woman did not come in to eat.

Apparently the other had discovered that her daughter had skipped school the day before and come to the Corner for ice cream. The mother held Ruth responsible for not realizing the girls should have been in school. She felt that Ruth should have sent them back.

The woman's voice escalated as she chewed Ruth up one side and down the other. Then with a victorious expression, she grabbed her daughters arm and stomped out.

The other students and I watched with amazement as Ruth's eyes opened wide, her jaw dropped and she began to shake. She looked like Wyley Coyote after stepping off a cliff. She never got a word out. She was so mad that she laughed. We all sat around for the next half hour thinking of good comebacks though, of course, it was too late.

Probably the most significant expression of the Seminary's relationship with Ruth is when she was invited to participate in a salute to former seminary President Randall Lolley in 1988. She has a candid picture of the event hanging at the Corner and seems quite fond of the memory.

Ruth's community service extends beyond the Southeastern/Wake Forest customers at the Corner. Ruth and her husband, Lloyd, are members of Post 635 Amvet Auxiliary in Raleigh where she is the president. The Amvets honor the veterans of World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

They visit the A Hospital in Durham, help with shelters in Raleigh and write letters to the troops in the Persian Gulf.

Ruth is a "Murder She Wrote" fan and loves to read, knit and go fishing without any bait.

Ruth Snap is an intricate part of the seminary experience.

EDITORIAL

Paul Purvis is the current Student Body President at Furman University. He is graduating in June. Finally, he has been called into full time ministry.

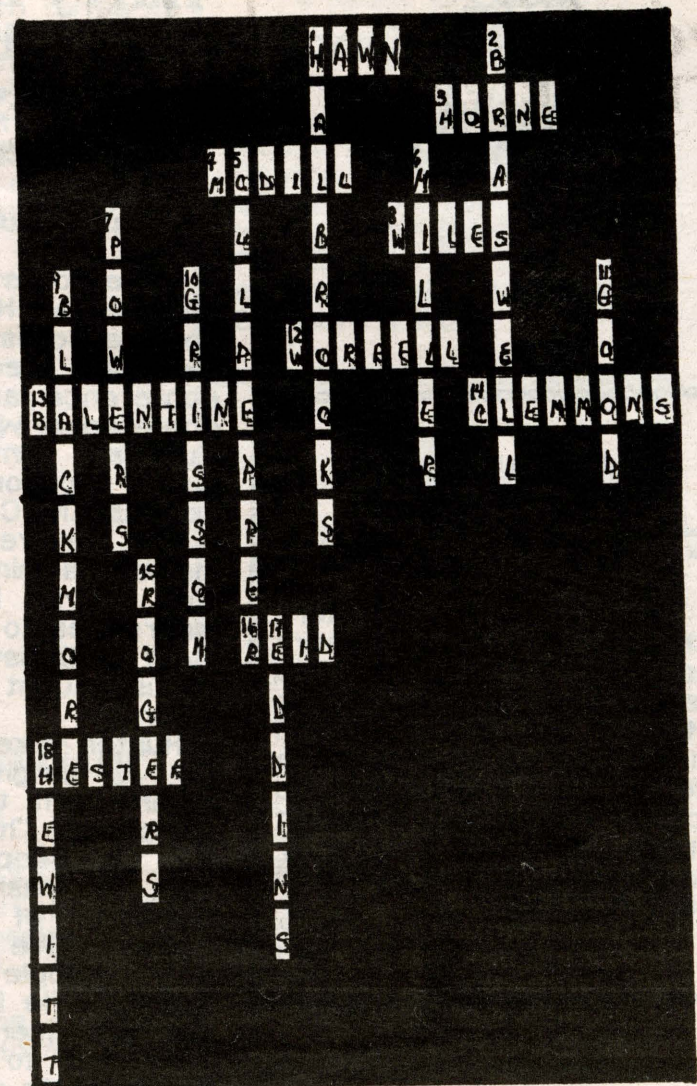

Paul's father is a prominent Baptist pastor in South Carolina. He has been and is a member of the General Board of South Carolina Baptists. He is a trustee of the Foreign Mission Board. He also graduated from Southeastern in 1963.

Paul's brother is a Baptist pastor in South Carolina. He is also on the General Board of South Carolina Baptists. He graduated from Southeastern in 1987.

Paul and his father visited Southeastern earlier in the fall. They went to the Office of Admissions and Student Recruitment. However, the admissions personnel did not exhibit interest in him as a person. They did not take his name or address as a prospective student. They have not followed up on his interest in Southeastern. Paul Purvis will be attending Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in the fall.

This final member of the family will not attend Southeastern because of the lack of interest and concern on the part of the office of admissions and student recruitment. Perhaps this explains why Southeastern has a number of new applicants that never gets translated into new students on campus.

BAPTIST NEWS

ELDER ENDS TENURE AT SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD

Nashville(BP) -- Southern Baptist Sunday School President Lloyd Elder and trustees have mutually agreed to end Elder's tenure at the BSSB. Elder's retirement is "a result of honest differences of opinion between employee and the board with regard to management style, philosophy and performance."

In a special called meeting of the trustees January 17 in Nashville, Elder presented his plan to retire. It will be effective on January 31, 1992, or 30 days after a successor is named. The meeting focused on three primary accusations: financial mismanagement, taping of phone calls without second party consent and editorial bias in a centennial history. A statement from the trustees says that agreement "is not a result of or based upon political or theological differences between the board and employee, but rather results from the parties' honest and good faith with regard to the board's management."

The retirement agreement stipulates that Elder would serve as a consultant to the BSSB until April 1, 1993, during which time he would receive his full salary and benefits. His current salary is $135,800. After that point he would receive in retirement income and supplement from the board up to 50% of his present salary.

RTVC Installs President and Acquires Network

Fort Worth, TX (BP) -- Trustees of the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission, meeting in Fort Worth, Jan. 14-15, heard reports of the financial health of the agency, installed its fourth president and voted to acquire a second television network.

Under terms of a contract approved at the meeting, the RTVC would acquire FamilyNet, a television network owned by the Old Time Gospel Hour, Inc. and Liberty Broadcasting network, Inc. both of Lynchburg, VA. Terms of the purchase were not disclosed pending completion of audits, but RTVC officials said it would involve cash and program time on ACT and FamilyNet. The cash would be from current operating funds according to RTVC President Jack Johnson.

Harry Hunter Conducts Prayer Conference

by Stephen Rummage

Wake Forest, NC -- Harry Hunter, a Home Mission Service Corps volunteer for the SBC, led a prayer conference last week. The conference, which met from Tuesday until Thursday, was sponsored by the Spiritual Life Council.

The prayer conference included seminars examining the prayer life of Jesus, hindrances to prayer in the lives of Christians and how Jesus taught his followers to pray.

Hunter stressed a need for uprightness and commitment to God among Christians. "It is necessary for the people of God to gain a freshness of the holiness of God," said Hunter. "We are to be a holy people under God because He is a holy God. We are men and women who are to live for the praise of His glory."

Richmond Seminary Elects First Permanent President

North Carolina pastor Thomas H. Graves has been elected first permanent president of the Baptist Theological Seminary at Richmond.

Trustees of the Southern Baptist Alliance-sponsored seminary announced their election of Graves at a Jan. 14 news conference in Richmond, VA.

They had elected him unanimously during a board meeting Jan. 7. He is expected to assume his new duties in mid-February.

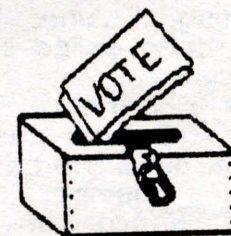

Graves' election concludes a 7-month search to find a successor to Morris Ashcraft.

The Baptist Theological Seminary at Richmond was authorized by the SBA, an organization of Southern Baptist moderates, at the Alliance's annual meeting in March 1989. However, the Alliance does not own or govern that seminary. The school's 16-member board of trustees is self-perpetuating.

The seminary's mission statement describes it as "unmistakably Baptist" with a commitment to being racially and gender inclusive with an ecumenical commitment and a global perspective."

Classes are expected to begin in the autumn of 1991 in the facilities of Northminster Baptist Church in Richmond, where the seminary is currently housed. About 60 students have expressed interest in attending the school.

BYTES WISDOM

by Tim Stokes

When professors begin asking students to write papers, student begin to ask about computers. They want to know how to select a computer, what features to get, and other things.

Computers are like houses. The more house you want; the more money you pay. The more computer you want ; the more money you pay. Also, like houses, you can add on the computer later if you see you need something larger.

Another point to consider when purchasing a computer is how easily you can expand it. As you learn more about computers, you will want to add features to it.

Before buying a computer, write down the reasons you want one. Never buy a computer because someone else has one. That could be the best reason for not buying one. While some people do need a computer, others do not. Buy a computer because you need one.

Once you are sure you want to buy, look for a company that will service what they sell. Your computer will break down--depend on it. If your computer company is not willing to service your computer or does not know of someone who will, go somewhere else.

As a final note, beware of sales persons who want to sell you more than you need. Buy only what you need for now; you can add to it later.

Status quo for Southeastern

Wake Forest, NC (BP) -- Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) has maintained Southeastern's "warning" status for another year.

In the decision announced December 12, at the close of its annual meeting, SACS decided to continue the current status of warning. SACS indicated that there had been significant improvement at Southeastern. However, the warning status will be retained for an additional year while the school continues to address its concerns.

President Drummond said, "We are dedicated to meet all SACS criteria concerns. I am gratified that we have apparently met some of their concerns. The warning leaves our accreditation fully and completely intact. We believe we will be able to resolve all of their concerns in the next year."

PRESIDENT'S FORUM

Dr. Drummond began the Forum by addressing the Shaw House situation. Vice President of Internal Affairs Paul Fletcher said that the Shaw House would be converted into a commuter dorm beginning next fall. Some renovations would be made. Commuter students will stay in the house during the week. It will be closed on the weekend.

When asked if commuter prices would increase, Fletcher said some adjustments would be made.

Drummond asked Harry Hunter, a long time friend, to say a word concerning prayer. Hunter emphasized the necessity of a continual prayer life. In a personal testimony, he explained how God had told him that he was not His man because he was not a man of prayer.

David Mansberger had all members of the Student Council stand and introduce themselves.

Concern was raised about the May term courses. Dr. Bush addressed the question explaining that when matriculation fees were made even across the board May term course fees were raised in the process. Bush said that they are looking into getting May term fees combined with summer term fees so that there is only one price. The trustees must still vote on this.

The question was raised concerning the status of the Great Commission Center. A spring conference will be held April 15 and 16 as a launching event for the new curriculum. The main emphasis will be on church planting, church growth, evangelism, cross-cultural missions and spiritual awakenings. Classes will begin next fall.

A question was posed about a rumor that Dr. Clemmons would not be allowed to continue his retreat called, The School of Prayer, in Florida. Drummond said he had no knowledge of that rumor.

The final question was concerning why the trees were being cut on campus. Fletcher explained that two large oaks had been hit by lightning and needed to be removed. Some were diseased; others were crowding one another. The most unhealthy trees were removed allowing others room to grow. Trees growing into the rock walls were also removed.

Fletcher continued that a long term planting and maintenance plan has been drawn up. He went on to assure that the traditional "Forest of Wake" appearance would be maintained. They plan to plant a variety of new trees.

In establishing this newspaper the students of Southeastern Seminary are engaging in an old and honorable practice, that of inviting relevant and constructive discussion by concerned and responsible people on matters pertinent to their common life. They have chosen a name which is equally honorable, one which enjoys a place of special significance in our Baptist history. In 1792 William Carey published a booklet entitled "An Enquiry into the Obligations of Christians to use Means for the Conversion of the Heathens". He intended not only to set forth his own observations, but also to call forth discussion from others who shared with him a commitment to Jesus Christ and a desire to fulfill their obligations which this discipleship implied. It is significant that he was concerned with Biblical foundation; that he gave attention to historical developments; that he appealed to reason; that he took into account the contemporary conditions; and that he did not ignore questions of practicality. It is hoped that this "Enquiry" will honor this spirit, this tradition, and this name.
