CAMPUS PUBLICATION OF SOUTHEASTERN SEMINARY

Snowy Beginning to New Year

Warnings of snow flooded the television on Wednesday, January 2 and shortly thereafter people flooded the supermarkets. I even found myself desiring to go to the store for bread and milk, although I seldom if ever use either one. Later that day the snow began and continued through most of the night. Schools cancelled classes, and businesses closed. The most popular place in town soon became the golf course and Southeastern's intramural field. Flocks of children and adults who wanted to feel like children grabbed their sleds and headed for the hills. Rumors circulated that Dr. Patterson himself glided down the hill at the intramural field with Noche following behind.

These hills carried more traffic than the snow covered roads. A few seminarians who described themselves as either "mountain boys" or "rednecks" could be found trying out their four wheel drive vehicles. But for the most part people chose to utilize a much safer but slower form of transportation—walking. After closing all day Thursday, the Seminary opened for business at 10:30 Friday morning. That Friday, the sun came out, and the sky was crystal blue providing a glorious picture of God's greatness right in our own back yard. Coming to work gave many people the opportunity to get a great workout shoveling out their driveways, and it gave them a great appreciation for all the shoveling the physical plant workers had to do in order to remove the snow from campus steps and sidewalks. When it was all finished, I measured eleven inches in my back yard, and as you can see by the picture above, snow drifts accumulated to over one foot. Snow like this seldom occurs in North Carolina but when it does, I think it brings out the best in people. Families spending the day together, parents playing with their children, friends riding sleds, and men waging war with an endless supply of snowball ammunition.

CAMPUS PUBLICATION OF SOUTHEASTERN SEMINARY

Students Share the Gospel Through- out the Globe

Students from Southeastern spread the Gospel message all around the world. During the break students and professors traveled to Mexico, Crimea, Ukraine, South Africa, New York City, Las Vegas, Czech Republic, Slovenia, and other restricted countries. Over 120 students participated in groups which shared the Gospel with over seven thousand people and saw at least five hundred and seventy people profess Jesus Christ as their Lord and Savior. Some of those converts could face up to twenty years in prison for their decision to follow Christ. Do not miss out on your opportunity to be involved in the great work God is doing throughout our world. Praise the Lord.

GREEK GURUS NEEDED

Greek proof readers wanted. Free book to Volunteer Workers.

If you have had one year or more of Greek, you qualify to carry out a simple proofreading task. In the process you will help prepare a new edition of the Byzantine Greek Text scheduled for publication this summer.

Your reward for this task will be a beautiful hardbound copy of the printed edition of this Greek New Testament, a chance to actually own and hold a copy of the autographs (or something close to that, since Dr. Robinson will autograph the copy if desired).

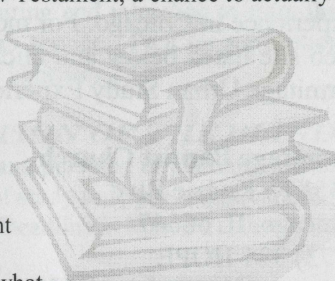

We need 100 volunteers, each of whom will commit to proofreading 10 pages of Greek New Testament typeset copy, comparing all accents, breathings, and punctuation against what appears in another printed Greek text. The actual words of the text do not have to be proofed.

Further, you do not have to know D. A. Carson's 77 Rules of Accentuation nor the 101 Ferengi Rules of Acquisition in order to perform this task. You do need to know the difference between a rough and smooth breathing, and the acute, grave, and circumflex accents, and must be able to recognize your own face when looking in a mirror.

Interested applicants please leave a 3x5 card with your name, address, SEBTS Box Number, and telephone number with Michelle Smithheart, faculty secretary, Stephens-Mackie, second floor, Suite 3. Work will begin on this project shortly.

CAMPUS PUBLICATION OF SOUTHEASTERN SEMINARY

— JEWISH EVANGELISM CONFERENCE HELD

Romans 1:16 says, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God to salvation for everyone who believes, for the Jew first and also for the Greek." Often this verse is quoted without thoughtful consideration of the emphasis placed on "Jew." Salvation is to the Jew first and to the Greek second. February 20-22, 2002 Southeastern Seminary hosted a conference stressing the need for the evangelization of the Jewish nation. Dr. Jim Sibley, a former missionary to Israel, conducted the opening conference on Wednesday at 2:00 pm. During his presentation Dr. Sibley quoted an un-cited source who said, "How odd of God to choose the Jews, but odder still for those who choose the Jewish God to reject the Jews." Although Dr. Sibley supports the work of Southern Baptists, he said, "In the New Testament, there are only two kinds of missions—not home missions and foreign missions, but Jewish missions and Gentile missions." Dr. Sibley encouraged missionaries and pastors to establish priority in proclamation to the Jewish nation and priority in prayer for the Jewish nation. Dr. Paige Patterson concluded the conference by speaking on Friday night. If you are interested in more information on Jewish evangelism, please contact "Chosen People Ministries" located at 1300 Cross Beam Drive in Charlotte, NC 28217. You can also visit www.chosenpeople.com. Also see "Reaching the Remnant" at the bottom of the page.

Beginning Monday February 25, 2002, you can pick up a complimentary copy of Microsoft Office XP from the Student Life Office. This offer is exclusively for current full or part-time students at Southeastern Seminary and college. This deal secures each student one copy for the duration of their stay at Southeastern. Thus, it is imperative that you do not lose your copy as it will be the only one you receive unless Microsoft releases a newer edition. Microsoft requires each student receiving a copy to read and fill out an agreement form. The distribution of these CDs will be handled by the Student Life Office from 8:00 am until 5:00 pm Monday through Thursday and 8:00 am until 4:00 pm on Friday. Microsoft Office XP will be available for Windows or Mac. If you cannot make it to the Student Life Office during these hours, please call 761-2305 to make special arrangements. There is no rush as this is not limited time offer.

CAMPUS PUBLICATION OF SOUTHEASTERN SEMINARY

WORSHIP: NEW TIME & NEW PLACE

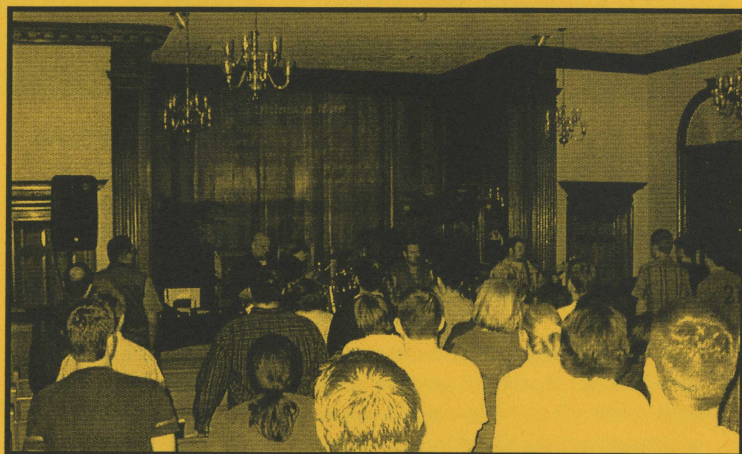

On any given Thursday night, someone can walk across campus and hear the sound of guitars, piano, drums, and voices lifting praises to the Lord from Appleby Chapel. On Thursday nights, students from Southeastern gather to worship the Lord through music and song. Trent Eayrs, one of the students originally responsible for organizing this weekly time of worship, said, "At Southeastern, our intellect is being stimulated in the classroom, Student Leadership has organized prayer rooms, Doulos stresses evangelism, and chapel provides the best preaching heard in the nation. Now there is also an outlet for students to respond to God through intimate worship led by Scripture." A group of students and faculty worked alongside each other to organize a time for student-led worship through music with the hope that it would lead to campus-wide revival.

Student-led worship through music began more than a year ago by meeting every other Thursday night, and it has grown into one of the most popular student activities at Southeastern. Each service is centered on a specific text of Scripture, but no one preaches. All of the musicians are students at Southeastern and have a passion for using music to lead others in worshipping God. Matt Lytle, the current coordinator, said, "The vision of student-led worship is to get students involved in other aspects of the campus. Now that we have worshipped together on Thursday, it is time to continue our worship through evangelism at Doulos and through service with other organizations."

Beginning March 8, student-led worship through music will be making the transition from Thursday nights in Appleby Chapel to Friday nights in the Ledford Center. Starting at 8:30 on Friday evenings in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Ledford Center, students will gather by the scores to worship our Lord and to sing praises to His name.

SEBTS STOPS TO REMEMBER

SOUTHEASTERN STUDENT REMEMBERED AS "VERY WELL- SPOKEN, BRIGHT, AND KIND."

Victoria Fenwick, 35, of Raleigh, N.C., collapsed in the student center on the campus of Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary on March 12, and later died at Raleigh Community Hospital for reasons unknown.

Fenwick, a first year student at Southeastern, had no prior medical condition and was described by her fellow classmates as "very well-spoken, bright, and kind."

When Fenwick collapsed in the student center, several students with medical training quickly responded.

Ted Webster, seminary student and local fireman, was standing near Fenwick when she fell and quickly began administering CPR.

Within seconds, students Kelly Sexton and Carman O'Kelly, both registered nurses, joined Webster in his effort to revive Fenwick.

The trio continued CPR even as Fenwick was being lifted into an ambulance.

O'Kelly, who had never even met Fenwick before, followed the ambulance to Raleigh Community Hospital and was praying in the waiting room when the doctors brought her the news that Fenwick passed away.

"My first thought was 'God, you are Sovereign,'" O'Kelly said. "Then, my heart broke because I did not know how to contact her family."

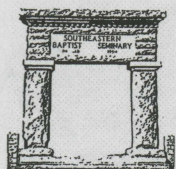

Unaware that Fenwick passed away, Webster and Sexton returned to their next class and asked their classmates to pray. But Webster and Sexton said it was difficult to concentrate because Fenwick should have been in class with them. Seeing Fenwick's empty chair made it difficult for the two to focus, knowing that their classmate's life was in jeopardy.

"We kept looking at each other during class," they said. "Eternity is certainly put into perspective. One minute you are thinking about a test and a paper and the next minute you are thinking about the fact that someone may have just died in front of you."

Fenwick was an active member of Elevation Baptist Church in Raleigh.

SOUTHEASTERN'S EMPLOYMENT OFFICE, BUILDING RESUMES AND THE KINGDOM

Each year hundreds of students move to Wake Forest in order to start school at Southeastern. Unfortunately, many of them move without any prospect of employment. They trust God to provide the means for attendance at Southeastern and the finances to finish their degrees while maintaining families and ministries at home and church. Thankfully, Southeastern has a unique ministry to help new and current students find employment. All one needs to do is to visit Skip Midkiff and Barbara Price in the Employment Office, located in the Ledford Center.

"Our main purpose is to help students and families who need jobs and to give them opportunities for employment," said Midkiff. "We are a conduit between students and families who need jobs and the employers who want to hire them." Midkiff also views his job as a ministry because he is sending Christian students into the secular workplace where they are hopefully witnessing and "seeding the community."

Even though job placement is directly tied to the economy, Midkiff is optimistic about the turn in employment he has seen in the last few months. December was the worst month for placement, but since then, the rate of employment has steadily increased. The employment office calculates its "hiring velocity" by comparing the number of active resumes with the number of jobs secured. The hiring velocity for March was thirty-five percent, but in the last twelve months, it has been as high as sixty-five percent.

The most common jobs for students are workers for United Parcel Service and night watchmen for security companies. The most interesting placement was an office worker for a company dealing in animal furs and skins. Even though most of the jobs are in the Wake Forest and North Raleigh area, Midkiff said that the only limitation is how far the student is willing to travel for a good job.

In addition to job placement, the Employment Office also provides other services. These services include financial counseling, resume advice, and interviewing skills. Midkiff also visits new businesses in the area informing them of the employment potential of the students at Southeastern.

If you are looking for a new job, a better paying job, or an opportunity to minister to people in the secular workforce, take a few minutes and visit the Employment Office in the Ledford Center. There is no better way to reach out to the lost of this world than by working side-by-side with them and living out your faith for the world to see.

EAST ASIA STUDENT GROUP STARTS ON CAMPUS

Imagine the possibility of going to another country with no friends and little or no prior experience in that country. Add to this the fact that the nation's government is at best apathetic and at worst hostile toward Christianity and Western missionaries. If you can imagine such a situation and your heart still yearns to be placed in difficult circumstances for the sake of the Kingdom of God, then the East Asia Mission Fellowship may be for you.

EAMF is one of the newest student groups to organize at Southeastern. In just its first semester, the leaders of EAMF (who will remain nameless due to security issues involving future ministry) have seen the small spark of passion in their hearts grow into a blazing desire to see the people groups of East Asia come to know Jesus Christ. Their mission is to share and heighten the desire God has placed on the hearts of students to serve in and pray for East Asia.

The group meets once a month in order to pray for the people of East Asia, to plan a trip to the region, and to teach mobilization strategies to students. Past meetings have included a presentation from a strategy coordinator of the International Mission Board, meeting with a missionary serving in a leadership position overseas, and a fellowship and information session describing other ministry opportunities.

Even though many of these students are counting down the days until they can pack all of their personal belongings and plant their lives in East Asia, they are not waiting for that day to minister to people. EAMF is seeking ministry opportunities to mentor Asian students who are attending nearby colleges and universities. They are also trying to meet Asian students where they gather for fun and recreation.

EAMF is putting into place prayer groups in support of missionaries and students getting ready to go on the field. They receive emails from missionaries around the world and take the time to pray for them in their prayer groups. This prayer ministry provides a network of support for missionaries facing the trials and dangers of living in a country whose government is opposed to the Gospel.

If danger, intrigue, and radical commitment to spreading the Gospel are the desires of your heart, then perhaps you should contact the East Asia Mission Fellowship. This group is a collection of brave students on campus, and they are willing to give their lives for the Lord. If you are seriously interested in joining the East Asia Mission Fellowship, contact the Student Life Office at 761-2305. Please remember the danger involved in publicizing this group and be careful to whom you provide this information.

TRUSTEES VISIT CAMPUS

Southeastern was blessed to have the Board of Trustees and the Board of Visitors on campus April 15th and 16th. This year Richard Headrick spoke at the Monday night dinner for the Board of Trustees and Board of Visitors. Mr. Headrick's message brought to the attention of both Boards the importance of supporting future seminary capital campaigns. Furthermore, his message centered on his and Gina's ministry to the SEBTS church planting students abroad. They have produced a book and video about their travels to visit missionaries abroad. To learn more about this ministry, you can visit the website, www.hellfighters.org.

Tuesday morning during chapel, trustee Mark Harris from Augusta, GA brought a great message from Joshua 14 about Caleb. Harris challenged listeners to remember their mission, remember their motivation, and remember the miracles. Both men and the Trustees in general seem excited about the progress of Southeastern, and particularly the proposed 50 million dollar fund raising campaign which may be used to build a new library, new student center, and increase overall endowment. Praise God for all He has done and is going to do at Southeastern Seminary.

MINISTRY OPPORTUNITIES

If you would like any information on the following ministry opportunities, please contact the Ministry Referral Office: 919-761-2317 or churchconnection@sebs.edu. There are several other posted positions available and listed in notebooks in the Ministry Referral Office, located in Broyhill Hall.

CHURCH PLANTING INTERNS

First Baptist Church Woodstock in Georgia is looking for summer interns from SEBTS to serve as church planting apprentices to help launch a church planting effort in a refugee community located approximately 45 minutes from our church. Our desire is to place either two male students or a couple (preferably without children) in or near this community to launch our long-term strategy of planting multiple house churches. Our first requirement for service is a clear calling from the Lord to this type of cross-cultural ministry. Secondly, experience working with internationals and/or Muslims would be very helpful. This will be a challenging assignment but for the right persons it is a very strategic opportunity to be a part of reaching out to the nations that God is bringing to our nation.

Clarkston, GA, is a refugee community where thousands of refugee families have been resettled after suffering through war, famine and persecution in their homeland. We have been called to reach out to the people of this refugee community with over thirty language groups who represent the world sent to Atlanta (Bosnia, Serbia, Kosovo, Albania, Iraq, Iran, Laos Afghanistan, Pakistan, Thailand, Jordan, Egypt, Somalia, Sudan, Congo, Uganda, Ethiopia, Togo, and more).

This is probably the most culturally diverse community in the United States. In addition there are two Islamic mosques in Clarkston. The ministry will be multicultural; with Muslim evangelism as the center of God's work among these precious people.

The ministry will focus primarily on apartment communities within a two square mile radius in Clarkson and will be Multi-housing cell-church in concept. We will build relationships through humanitarian help as well as programs such as ESL, Learning Labs for Children, sports programs and other activities to meet needs. We will share the Gospel through Vacation Bible School, in home bible studies with specific ministries focused toward men and women. As God leads, and we disciple parents and children, we will begin home fellowships and teach others to share their faith with family and friends.

If interested, contact Dr. Brown at 761-2160.

STUDENT LEADERSHIP ELECTED

By the end of the day last Thursday, the Student Leadership Team for the 2002-2003 school year had been determined. In fact, most of the team was already in place before the election because the only contested election was for the position of Vice President of Seminary Students. The 2002-2003 Student Leadership Team is Evan Lenow, President; Ben Brammer, Vice President of Seminary Students; Aaron Miller, Vice President of College Students; and Christina Ainley, Secretary/Treasurer. This new group brings a large amount of experience in student leadership from both the seminary and college level.

The Student Leadership Team plays an integral role in campus life and student activities throughout the year at Southeastern. The leadership team takes responsibility for all the student clubs and organizations and meets with the presidents of the clubs on a monthly basis. The President serves as an active voice for the students as he meets with the Director of Student Life on a weekly basis. Also, the team works hand-in-hand with the Student Life Office to plan, organize, and implement campus activities for the wide range of students at Southeastern. Finally, the leadership team has the privilege of meeting with Dr. Patterson regularly in order to express ideas and receive feedback on issues directly affecting students.

With a new group of students to serve on the Student Leadership Team comes an abundance of fresh ideas and excitement. Lenow said, "We have a wonderful team that is excited to serve and to make an impact on our campus this year. We have a vision to see the student body grow in their relationships with the Lord and to do our part in assisting them to prepare for the ministry." He went on to say that the Student Leadership Team is not concerned about being in the spotlight or receiving credit for accomplishments; instead, they wish to follow Jesus' model of servant leadership by sacrificially serving their fellow students. For that reason, they would like the entire student body to know that they are always open to discuss any problems, ideas, and suggestions at any time.

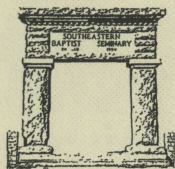

Even though the elections are completed, there are still other opportunities to get involved in Student Leadership at Southeastern. Every year, the leadership team takes applications for those interested in serving their fellow students without the time commitment of serving in one of the elected positions. These Student Representatives assist the leadership team and the Student Life Office with campus activities, Sandy Creek Week, and special events. If interested in serving as a Student Representative, please contact one of the newly elected officers.

Take the time to meet your new representatives and make your voice heard by expressing your opinions to them. They are here to serve the student body and to help all students get the most out of their time at Southeastern.

The Cultural Commission is pleased to present the Christian Worldview Institute for Students (CWIS), a unique and exciting annual youth summer camp for high-school-age teens. Our camp is designed to equip students to distinguish between a healthy, vibrant Christian worldview and other worldviews that predominate the culture in which they are immersed. The ultimate goal of CWIS is to impart knowledge, relate truth, and promote aspiration amongst young people to be godly leaders in their generation with a view to doing the good works that God has prepared for them.

We are looking for chaperones, van drivers, technical support, and praise and worship leaders. Be a part of our edifying summer youth camp in expanding the kingdom of God. Call Joe Wirtz at (919) 938-3790 or visit us at: www.theculturalcommission.com.

CAMPUS PUBLICATION OF SOUTHEASTERN SEMINARY

Here am I.

SEND ME

Every year, scores of students from Southeastern respond to the call of God to spread the Gospel to the far reaches of the globe. The mission for which they volunteer is not for the faint of heart nor the timid in Spirit. In fact, the students who volunteer are often sent to some of the most difficult-to-reach people groups in the world.

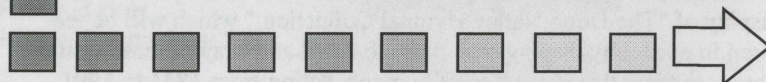

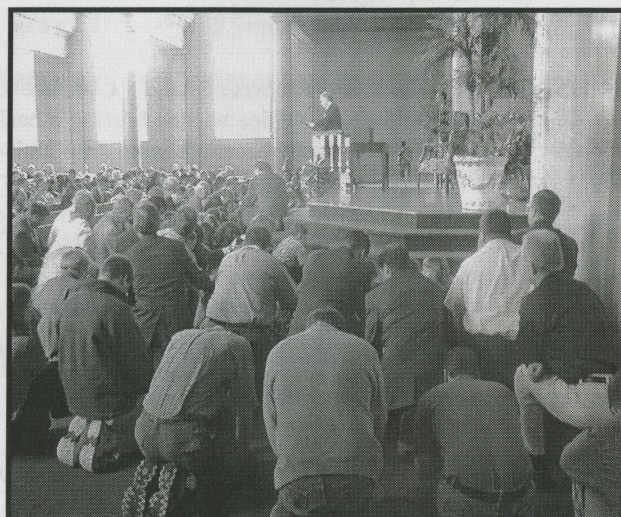

They leave behind many of their earthly possessions and start new lives in places that are often hostile to the Gospel. For these reasons, the 2+2 students from Southeastern Seminary are among the bravest and most dedicated missionaries to travel the world.

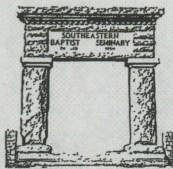

Southeastern has the oldest and largest 2+2 International Church Planting program among all Southern Baptist seminaries. The program was first approved by the Board of Trustees in 1994, and the first deployment of students took place in August 1995. Currently, Southeastern has 101 missionary units either on the field or in the classroom preparing for deployment in the next two years. Each unit consists of either a family or a single student. On Saturday, May 11, 2002, the next group of students awaiting deployment were commissioned in a special service. The 2002 deployment of twenty-three units is focusing on Central Asia where there is a strong Muslim influence.

The 2+2 program is a unique opportunity for students to complete essential classroom studies and gain vital hands-on experience in less time than it would normally take someone pursuing a traditional M.Div. The program begins with two years, or sixty-seven hours, of class work on the Wake Forest campus. Then the students are deployed to the field site to begin actual church planting work. During the two years on the field, professors from Southeastern travel to the region where the students are serving to conduct modular seminars, guided readings, and supervised practica in order to complete the final twenty-nine hours of the degree program. The student successfully completing the Master of Divinity with International Church Planting degree is an equipped and experienced church planter that may apply for career status.

The two main aspects of the program that make it desirable for those who feel called by God to missions are the structure for mentored learning and the opportunity to be on the field a year earlier. This structure allows the students to learn "on the job," and at the end of the program, students have completed the two year field experience requirement for career appointment by the International Mission Board.

Dr. Keith Eitel, Director of the 2+2 International Church Planting program, said, "If you really want to impact an entire culture, the church is what God has ordained to do that." Eitel has worked with the program since its beginning and is happy to see that the program at Southeastern is running more smoothly than at any other seminary.

As Southeastern deploys its eighth group of missionary units in the 2+2 program, this may be the time for others to seriously consider the call God has placed on their lives. Is God calling you to impact an entire culture by planting a church in an international setting. For more information, contact the Center for Great Commission Studies at (919) 761-2230 to set up an appointment with Dr. Eitel.

COUNTRY LIVING AT ITS BEST

Dr. Black is looking for someone to care for his home and horses near Oxford (30 minutes from the seminary) and someone else to house-sit his farm in Virginia (1 hour from the seminary) while his family is traveling from mid-July to mid-August this summer. Free room, plus country living at its best. If you are interested, please contact Dr. Black ASAP at 919-863-8455 or dblack@sebts.edu.

WOMEN'S CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

Registration for the Women's Certificate Program will take place May 20-24. Forms may be picked up in the Registrar's Office. This is a great opportunity for wives of seminary students or other women to take classes at an extremely affordable price. Please make sure to check into this program. JIM PERDUE NAMED PRETTIEST PRESIDENT EVER

After recent comments made by Dr. Patterson in chapel concerning the aesthetic value of the face of outgoing Student Body President Jim Perdue, the campus has been wondering: Who is the prettiest president ever?! For this reason, the "powers that be" scoured the globe looking for a picture of the prettiest president to ever preside over a student body. The results of the search ended in a picture that bears an uncanny resemblance to President Perdue.

On Wednesday, May 15, Dr. Patterson presented the picture of the prettiest student body president to Perdue so that he could have it framed and hang it on his wall. Along with the magnificently doctored picture of the student body president, Patterson presented Perdue with a Presidential Achievement Award for "beautifully" setting the standard by which all future presidents will be judged.

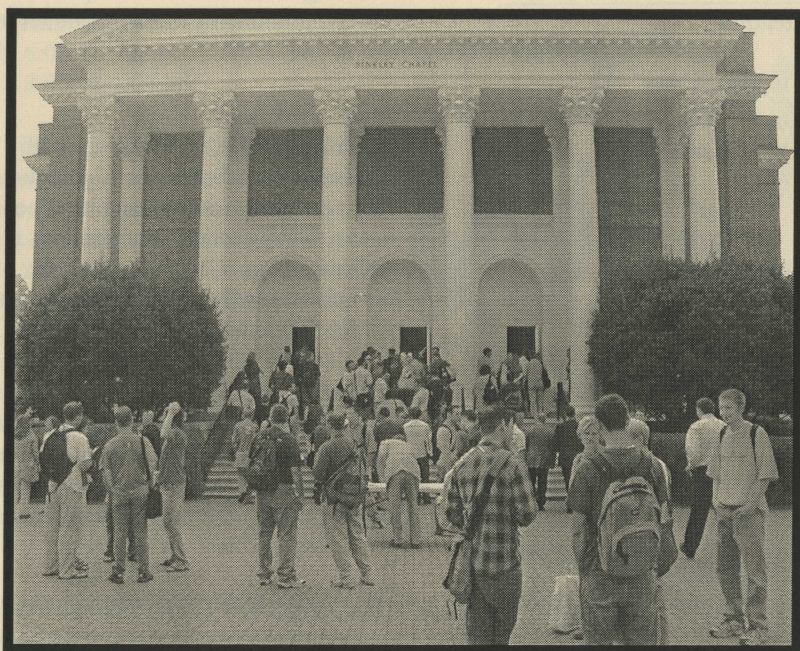

Not to be outdone by Patterson, Perdue had a few presentations of his own to make to Dr. Patterson. He presented the President with a friendship plaque, incognito glasses and mustache, a plastic snake, and a book entitled, When I Grow Up, I Want To Be a Fireman. With the glasses and snake, Dr. Patterson said he felt like a combination of Dr. Reid and Dr. McDill. One final gift was presented to Dr. Patterson as well. Perdue gave him a box of Swiss Cake Rolls, but keep that under wraps and don't tell Mrs. Patterson.

By most standards, the beautiful reign of President Perdue was quite successful. Student Leadership Teams of the future have big shoes to fill as they seek to follow in the footsteps of Perdue—the "Prettiest President Ever."

Campus Publication of Southeastern Seminary

SOUTHEASTERN WELCOMES NEW CLASS

On August 20, Southeastern began her 52nd year of classes, welcoming one of the largest classes to ever attend the campus in Wake Forest. With new students abounding, fresh excitement and enthusiasm permeates every corner of the campus. The evidence of this was seen as lines of students streamed onto the steps of Binkley to get inside the doors for the first days of chapel last week.

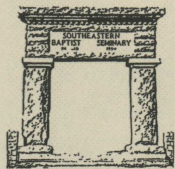

The size of the new class is not only evident in chapel services, but it is also evident in the Office of the Registrar. Sheldon Alexander, Registrar, said, "We expect to have right at two thousand students enrolled in classes this semester. This ought to be a record for any single semester at Southeastern."

With a record number of new students participating in Orientation and Matriculation, students saw the blessings and problems of increasing enrollment. The greatest blessing is that so many students are seeking an education at Southeastern where they can study under godly professors devoted to the authority of Scripture. Amy Adams, a new student from Taylors, SC, said, "It's exciting to be surrounded by people who all share the same goals and passion." On the other hand, the problems that come along with increasing enrollment include larger class size and more closed classes for those still seeking to register for class or to change classes. Even with such problems, the students maintained their high spirits and simply registered for other classes.

Perhaps, the most interesting part of being a new student in either the Seminary or the College is the common ailment of "syllabus shock." Southeastern has a reputation of being academically stringent while maintaining a focus on ministry. Even though this combination of mind and ministry draws many students to Southeastern, they still seem surprised by the workload. One student, who wishes to remain anonymous, said, "After church history with Dr. McKinion, I'm kind of scared."

Over the next several weeks, this group of new students will merge with the rest of the student body to become the largest group to ever attend classes at Southeastern. The impact made for God's Kingdom by the group of students currently on this campus will be immeasurable by human standards.

STUDENTS RETURN TO A NEW LANDSCAPE AT SOUTHEASTERN

Upon returning to classes this Fall, many Southeastern students were surprised to see familiar buildings missing from the landscape of the campus. Over the summer, the Ruby Reid childcare building and the old cafeteria were razed to make way for one of the most exciting building projects in Southeastern history. The empty lot, which stretches from the corner of North Wingate Street and West Avenue to the President's residence at Magnolia Hill, will become the home to Southeastern's new Campus Center.

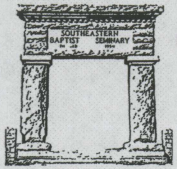

According to Ryan Hutchinson, Vice President for Administration, the $5.5-6.0 million project will be the largest building project under the Patterson administration. The Campus Center will be a 50,000 square-foot facility housing classrooms, offices, the bookstore, gathering areas, computer labs, the copy center, the mailroom, food services, and a coffee shop. The funds from this project will come as a part of the ten-year, $50 million capital campaign recently started by the administration. During the first twelve to fourteen months of the campaign, Southeastern hopes to raise $16.5 million, more than enough to cover the expense of the Campus Center. With a groundbreaking ceremony scheduled for early spring 2003, the predicted opening of the Center will be mid-2004. After the construction of the Campus Center, the Ledford Center will continue to function as a health and fitness center.

In addition to the Campus Center, a new library is scheduled for construction behind the Ledford Center on the site of the Rankin Court duplexes. The new 75,000 square-foot, $14-16 million library is scheduled for completion in the next four to five years. At that time, North Wingate Street will be closed, creating a walking mall from Stealey Hall to the Library, between the Campus Center and the Ledford Center.

Dr. Paige Patterson, President, said, "The Campus Center will serve as a central location to discuss the great areas of theology such as determining the fallacies of both Calvinism and Arminianism, the correctness of the President's views on the pre-tribulation rapture, solving the great debate of Matthean or Markan priority, and confirming the Lukan authorship of Hebrews. These topics and many more will fill the building from the bookstore, to the classrooms, to the student service offices and the coffee shop of which will all be located in this great facility."

FLAME

FLAME is a 2-year project for Journeymen, International Service Corps (ISC), and missionary apprentices with the International Mission Board who are interested in exploring the NAME region (Northern Africa & the Middle East). Participants in FLAME spend their first year acquiring Arabic and learning how to live in the Arab World and share the Gospel in a culturally sensitive way. Plus, within a team community, participants focus on their personal walk with the Lord, NAME missiology, and discipleship. The second year is devoted to field experience, and FLAME participants have the opportunity to match their calling and skills with projects, working on people group teams around the region. Dave and Debbie Mills, IMB personnel and FLAME Facilitators, are on the Southeastern campus this academic year and would be pleased to have the opportunity to talk with you about FLAME. Presently there are four FLAME Centers in NAME — Egypt, Ethiopia, Morocco, and Lebanon. You can reach us at 556-7340 or at davedebm@pobox.com. Let's take the Gospel, all the way, to every edge of the Arab World. Get Arabic and get edgy.

A Day to Remember

As students filed into the student center, they were struck by the horrifying images projected on the wall. No one was talking. No one was playing games. Everyone was transfixed by the surreal video from New York City and Washington, D.C., as live feeds displayed the horror that no one ever believed could touch the United States. Symbols of American freedom and protection, the World Trade Center and the Pentagon, were engulfed in flames.

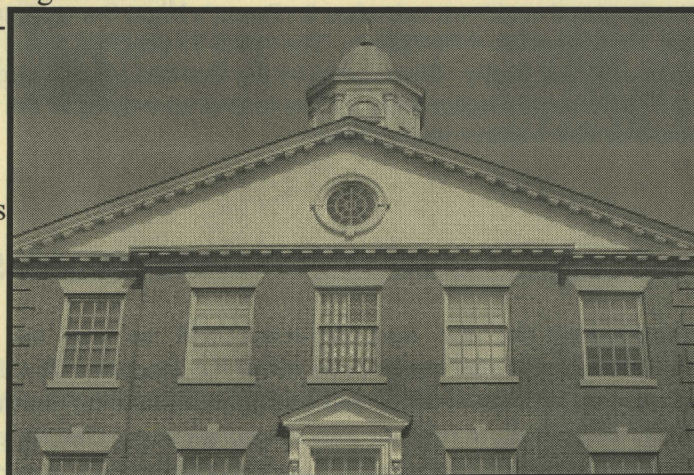

September 11, 2001, will forever remain a day to remember for Southeastern students. As students filed into chapel a little before ten o'clock that morning, rumors were flying that the country had been attacked. The whispers then turned to sobs as Dr. Patterson reported to the student body that the World Trade Center had been hit by two passenger airliners. After chapel, many students followed their normal routine to go to the Ledford Center to grab a bite to eat before class. As they entered the building, many were astounded by the first pictures they had seen from New York City. One's imagination was not enough to recreate the disaster — only the real video footage could accurately depict such a catastrophe.

One year later, American flags still fly in front of homes and offices. Bumper stickers and window decals proclaim the pride citizens feel for this great nation. However, all is not patriotic. In the last year, a lawsuit has been filed on behalf of a child claiming that the Pledge of Allegiance is unconstitutional, discriminating against those who claim not to believe in God. Two federal judges in California supported the idea that the pledge was discriminatory, and the case is still pending in higher courts.

September 11, 2002, brought a new sense of patriotism as numerous memorial services were held throughout the nation. Along with churches, schools, and businesses across the country, the bells of Binkley Chapel rang at 10:29 am to remember the falling of the second tower of the World Trade Center. The chapel service was marked by prayer and an admonition by Dr. John Avant that we seek God with clean hands and pure hearts in order to reach those in low and lonely places.

While the nation questions what patriotism really means, the mission of Christians remains the same. It does not matter who is in government or what is deemed as patriotic; instead, our allegiance is to God first. On this anniversary of September 11, one should remember America but only after acknowledging allegiance to God.

A flag still hangs in the center window of Stealey Hall

Preparing for Personal Revival

Our annual Sandy Creek Revival Week is October 1-3, 2002

1. Pray the prayer of the psalmist: "Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting" (Psalm 139: 23,24).
2. Be totally honest as you answer each question.
3. Agree with God about each need He reveals in your life. Confess each sin, with the willingness to make it right.
4. Repent from sin. Turn from every sin the Lord reveals in your heart and forsake it.
5. Praise God for His cleansing and forgiveness.

Review these questions periodically to remain sensitive to your need for ongoing revival.

1. Genuine Salvation (2 Corinthians 5:17)
 - a. Was there ever a time in my life that I genuinely repented of my sin?
 - b. Was there ever a time in my life that I placed all my trust in Jesus Christ alone to save me?
2. God's Word (Psalm 119:97; 119:140)
 - a. Do I love to read and meditate on the Word of God?

 - d. Do I esteem all others as better than myself? (Phil. 2:3-4)
4. Obedience (Hebrews 13:17; 1 Samuel 15:22)
 - a. Do I consistently obey what I know God wants me to do? (James 1:21-25)

5. Pure Heart (1 John 1:9)
 - a. Do I confess my sin by name?
 - b. Do I keep "short sin accounts" with God (confess and forsake as He convicts)?
 - c. Am I willing to give up all sin for God?
6. Clear Conscience (Acts 24:16)
 - a. Do I consistently seek forgiveness from those I wrong or offend?
 - b. Is my conscience clear with every man? (Can I honestly say, "There is no one I have wronged or offended in any way and not gone back to them and sought their forgiveness and made it right"?)
7. Priorities (Matthew 6:33)
 - a. Does my schedule reveal that God is first in my life?
 - b. Does my checkbook reveal that God is first in my life?
 - c. Next to my relationship with God, is my relationship with my family my highest priority?
8. Values (Colossians 3:12)

Sandy Creek Week Revival

Southeastern's annual Sandy Creek Week revival services will take place this week, October 1-3, at 10:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

Openness to Spiritual Insights

Dr. Andreas J. Köstenberger, Professor of New Testament, explores the lessons to be learned from Jesus' encounter with Nicodemus.

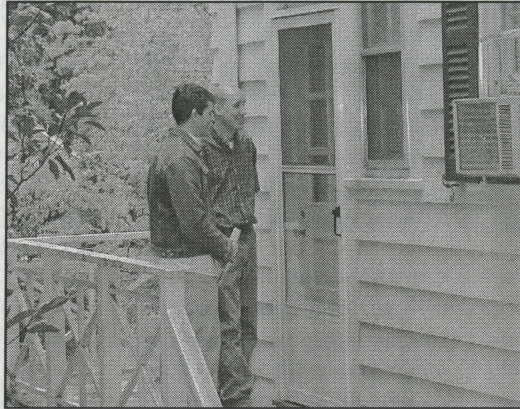

Ministry Opportunities

The Field Ministry Office has numerous positions available for Southeastern students.

Student group reaching Wake Forest, one door at a time

Most students love a Friday night out on the town at the end of a long week of classes. However, for a certain student group at Southeastern, a Friday night on the town means something entirely different. These Southeastern students spend their Friday nights going from one place to another, door to door.

Doulos is one of the most active student groups on Southeastern's campus. Each Friday night, they meet at 6:30 to spread the Gospel to the people of Wake Forest, NC.

Cameron Wooten and Jody Jennings go door-to-door for Doulos.

According to Jody Jennings, Doulos Coordinator, the purpose of this student group is to "reach the lost and connect them to a local congregation that will enhance spiritual growth."

Doulos is the transliteration of the Greek term meaning "bond-servant, slave." By systematically sharing the Gospel through door-to-door evangelism, servanthood evangelism, and high school outreach, the members of this organization seek to prove themselves to be faithful "servants" to both God and their fellow man.

The organization started in 1997 under the leadership of several students who had a Passion for worship

Students gather for a time of fellowship and coffee after Thursday night worship.

Over 100 students and faculty gather for student-led worship each Thursday night at 9:30 in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Ledford Center.

Recently, this group hosted a coffee fellowship after worship as well. As always, this event was open to anyone desiring to worship through Christ-centered praise music.

All aspects of campus are represented at the weekly service as college students, seminary students, and professors participate.

The worship leaders vary from week-to-week, taking advantage of the vast musical talent of students at Southeastern.

Forshee to be guest speaker at Sandy Creek

Dr. Danny Forshee, pastor of Liberty Baptist Church in Hampton, VA, will be the guest speaker for the annual Sandy Creek Week Revival at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary.

Sandy Creek Week services will take place October 1-3, 2002, at 10:00 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. in Binkley Chapel.

The Sandy Creek Week Revival is named for the historic Baptist roots in Sandy Creek, NC. In 1755, Shubal Stearns and his brother-in-law, Daniel Marshall, started a Baptist church in the small town of Sandy Creek in what is now Randolph County. Due to its location at the crossroads of trade routes and the untiring evangelistic efforts of its pastor, the influence of the Sandy Creek church spread throughout the South. Over a period of seventeen years, forty-two churches were established from the Sandy Creek church.

Holding to that tradition, the administration of Southeastern desires to offer a strong evangelistic emphasis during the annual revival services.

Faculty Spotlight: Michael Travers

Family: Barbara, married 27 years; Stephen and Elizabeth
Seminary/College position: Professor of English, College
Hometown: Niagara Falls, Ontario, Canada

How you became a Christian: While I was working on a second graduate degree, I came to realize that all of my worldly accomplishments were "so much dust" and worthless. Late one night, unable to sleep, I went outside to run, and the witness of a faithful Christian, who was also my summer employer while I was in school, came to mind. The Holy Spirit convicted me of my sin, and I bowed in the snow and asked Jesus Christ to be my Savior.

Current church: Though still new in the area, we have been attending Christ Baptist Church, a new church plant out of Providence Baptist Church.

Most influential person in your life: In my private life, Mac Cushing (the man whose testimony the Lord used in my conversion) set a godly example of a Christian gentleman before me.

Education: Honours B. A., McMaster University; M. A., McMaster University; Diploma in Education, Post-Baccalaureate, The University of Western Ontario; Ph.D., Michigan State University

Classes currently teaching: History of Ideas, Survey of British Literature I, Shakespeare I

Favorite class ever taught: I especially love to teach C. S. Lewis, Literature of the Bible (NOT the Bible as Literature), and John Milton.

Recent or upcoming publications : Currently I am completing a book manuscript on the Psalms, to be published by Kregel Publications in November 2003. Tentatively entitled Encountering God in the Psalms. Next on my list is a book on C. S. Lewis.

Favorite author: J. R. R. Tolkien, C. S. Lewis

Favorite musician: Mozart, Handel, Martin Luther, plus some of Peter, Paul and Mary, and Gordon Lightfoot

Hobbies: You could talk me into traveling to England any time. I like to ride a bike, run, and read; I golf once or twice a year.

What influenced you to come to Southeastern: First, I have always wanted to "marry" my study of literature with my high view of the Bible, and joining a seminary / college faculty strikes me as one of the best ways to do so. Secondly, I was attracted to the serious efforts at Southeastern to integrate faith and learning along historic biblical and Baptist lines.

A word of wisdom for the readers: Christianity is a 24/7 life, not a Sunday morning show. Our Christianity should permeate every aspect of our lives. All of life is a stewardship before Jesus Christ. Sola Scriptura, Sola Fides, Sola Gratia.

Theological Thoughts

Openness to new spiritual insights from God: Reflection on John 3:1-8

"Now there was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a member of the Jewish ruling council. He came to Jesus at night and said, 'Rabbi, we know you are a teacher who has come from God. For no one could perform the miraculous signs you are doing if God were not with him.'

Andreas J. Köstenberger, Professor of New Testament and Director of Ph.D./Th.M. studies, Southeastern Seminary

"In reply Jesus declared, 'I tell you the truth, no one can see the kingdom of God unless he is born again.'

"How can a man be born again when he is old?' Nicodemus asked. 'Surely he cannot enter a second time into his mother's womb to be born!'

"Jesus answered, 'I tell you the truth, no one can enter the kingdom of God unless he is born of water and the Spirit. Flesh gives birth to flesh, but the Spirit gives birth to spirit. You should not be surprised at my saying, 'You must be born again.' The wind blows wherever it pleases. You hear its sound, but you cannot tell where it comes from or where it is going. So it is with everyone born of the Spirit' " (John 3:1-8).

The notion of a new beginning and a decisive inner transformation of a person's life is also found in certain Old Testament prophetic passages (e.g., Jer. 31:33-34; Ezek. 11:19-20; 36:25-27). This concept of a new spiritual birth is similar to that of a "new creation" (cf. 2 Cor. 5:17; Gal. 6:15). The term anōthen, translated "again" in the NIV, can mean either "from above" or "from the beginning." This potential ambiguity opens up the possibility of misunderstanding.

The fact that "born of water and the Spirit" further develops "born again" in 3:3 suggests that one birth is in view rather than two. The closest Old Testament parallel is Ezekiel 36:25-27 which predicts God's cleansing of human hearts with water and their inner transformation by his Spirit. The terminology may also be reminiscent of first-century proselyte baptism, where the Gentile convert to Judaism was compared to a newborn child.

You must be born again (3:7). "You" in the plural, which shows that this requirement does not extend solely to Nicodemus but to the entire group he represents (cf.

"anyone" in 3:3, 5; "we" in 3:2, 11). This includes the Pharisees and the Sanhedrin—and thus the entire Jewish religious leadership—but ultimately the entire nation.

We must consciously cultivate an openness to new spiritual insights from God, even if this involves a radical change of life. Nicodemus, the revered "teacher of Israel," was confronted with his need to be "born from above." Would he be open to acknowledge his spiritual need and humble himself before God? Would he be receptive to that new revelation? The older we get, the harder it may be to retain such openness, but without it we will either suffer spiritual death altogether (if we are unbelievers) or cease to grow as a Christian.

passion for the lost. David Sims, the first Doulos Coordinator said, "Our original vision was to go systematically to every home in the area and to inspire students to be a light-house wherever they may go."

The leadership for 2002-2003 has cast a new vision for the organization as they hope to reach more people while involving a larger number of students.

In addition to going door-to-door on a weekly basis, Jennings has added an outreach to high school students in connection with North Wake Church. By providing music, entertainment, and food before one of the Wake Forest-Rolesville High School football games, Doulos members were able to share the Gospel with many high school students.

On the Friday night of Labor Day weekend, members chose not to get discouraged by the rain. Instead, they gathered umbrellas and went to one of the local grocery stores to escort customers to their cars in a display of servanthood evangelism.

Jennings, an M.Div. in international church planting student, views this as an opportunity to get practical experience for a future of ministry at home and abroad. He said, "In a seminary environment where it can be hard to get evangelism opportunities, Doulos offers an outlet to reach the lost on a regular basis."

professor of evangelism at Southeastern, currently serves as pastor of Liberty Baptist Church in Hampton, VA. He is a graduate of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, TX, and Mobile College, Mobile, AL. In addition to serving as a professor and pastor, Forshee has published articles in the areas of evangelism and church growth and has recently co-authored a book with Dr. Alvin Reid entitled The Net.

Each day will begin with the regularly scheduled chapel service at 10:00 a.m. The evening services begin at 7:00 p.m. and include special emphases.

The Tuesday night service is youth night. All local youth groups have been invited to enjoy free pizza and sodas at 6:00 p.m. on the lawn in front of Binkley Chapel. The service will include praise and worship music from a praise band made up of Southeastern students and faculty.

Thursday evening is Mass Choir Night. Choirs and orchestras from numerous local churches have been invited to assist Dr. John Boozer in leading music.

The focus of the Sandy Creek Revival Week is to encourage and strengthen Christians in their walk with the Lord and to provide an opportunity for students, faculty, staff, and the community to bring friends and neighbors to a place where they can hear a clear presentation of the gospel.

The Center for Great Commission Studies has several opportunities listed for students looking to serve on the mission field over the break.

Church planters share vision

Brian Sunderly (left), Southeastern graduate and church planter in Maryland, and Bill Crowe (far left) speak with Chad and Amie Coleman about church planting.

One needs only to step into the North American prayer room adjoining the balcony of Binkley to be reminded of the Seminary's commitment to church planting in North America. On one wall hangs a map of the United States and Canada. On another wall is a map of New Hampshire, one of the states with which the seminary has a partnership. On the tables lay cards and notebooks full of prayer requests from throughout the continent.

With so many areas of North America struggling from the lack of a consistent evangelical witness, Southeastern graduates are in demand to plant churches.

Phil Mercer, a trustee for the Seminary, recently sponsored a dinner and information session for anyone interested in planting churches in Maryland and Delaware. Assisting Mercer in this effort were David Jackson, Church Planting Consultant/Specialist for the Baptist Convention of Maryland/Delaware, Bill Crowe, Director of Missions for the Mid-Maryland Baptist Association, and Brian Sunderly, Pastor of Heartland Church in Ellicott City, Maryland.

With 27 church plants in the last year, Southern Baptists are well on their way to establishing a solid presence in the Maryland and Delaware region. However, according to Crowe, Southern Baptists account for less than 2% of the total population in a region with 3-4 million unchurched people.

Sunderly, a graduate of Southeastern, said, "I had never heard of church planting." However, in 1997, he moved to Maryland in order to plant a church that is now thriving.

The need for someone to reach out to the unchurched population of Maryland and Delaware is great. Sunderly said, "Eighty to eighty-five percent of my church members come from an unchurched background."

According to Dr. Bill Brown, director of Southeastern's Nehemiah Project, approximately 66 students are preparing to be

Trustees plan for Seminary's future

In this semester's bi-annual visit to the campus, the trustees of Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary unanimously voted to begin construction on the new campus center located at the corner of North Wingate Street and West Avenue, as a part of the Scholarship on Fire! fundraising campaign.

Jim Goldston, a trustee from Raleigh, noted the enthusiasm for the meeting and the new fundraising campaign. He said, "Very strong flames are already burning in the Scholarship on Fire! campaign."

Trustees, faculty, staff, and students enjoy a lunch in the Ledford Center in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Patterson.

As well as voting to begin construction, the trustees honored Drs. Paige and Dorothy Patterson on ten years of service to the Seminary. October 15 was declared "Dr. and Mrs. Patterson Day," and a lunch was held in their honor in the gym of the Ledford Center. All students, faculty, staff, and administration were invited to the lunch.

Theological Thoughts

The foolishness of God: An insight into 1 Corinthians 1:18

"For the word of the cross is foolishness to those who are perishing, but to us who are being saved it is the power of God" (1 Cor. 1:18).

Paige Patterson,
President and Senior Professor of Theology, Southeastern
Baptist Theological Seminary

It may be observed that when Paul spoke of the logos of the cross, he was speaking not only of a divine wisdom but also of a divine communication. The cross was at once both God's wisdom for the salvation of the race and the communication of such diverse attributes as His just holiness in reaction to sin and His love for the sinner. It is worth noting with R. St. John Parry that only Paul used the word "cross" to summarize the whole aspect of suffering in the life and work of Christ. As Parry writes, "It describes the death of Christ in its most profound humiliation and its most direct contradiction of men's ordinary thoughts."

Therefore, when Paul wrote of the word of the cross, he intended the reader to understand the full doctrine of the atoning death of Jesus.

However, this word of the cross is to those who are perishing foolishness. Two issues must be addressed here. First, "those who are perishing" is a present participle indicating continual action. In other words, the act of perishing has already begun and will continue unbroken unless there is repentance toward God and faith in Jesus Christ. The second thing to note is the word "perishing" itself. It is the Greek verb apollumi, which derives in turn from the verb luō, "to loose," and the preposition apo, which means "from" or "away from." Careful study of the word reveals no concept of annihilation. The fact that the process is already pictured as having begun should be ample indication that annihilation is not the idea of this word. Rather, the best insight to its meaning is simply to understand the most basic meanings already suggested. The word means literally "to loose from something." Those who are lost are being continually loosed from any relationship to God—even from temporal and physical blessings. Only as men are properly related to God does life have meaning and significance. Otherwise, it soon degenerates to mere existence—frustrating and meaningless existence at that. The process of perishing has already begun and will continue infinitely into the future, ultimately culminating in eternal punishment.

"Only as men are properly related to God does life have meaning and significance."

To those who are perishing, the word of the cross is foolishness. The word "foolishness" (mōria) gives us our word "moron." It is a strong Greek term which, strictly speaking, means "absurdity." In other words, those who are in the process of perishing are so far removed from godly wisdom that the logos of the cross seems to be an absurdity. It is the antithesis of everything men are taught to believe. In this world men rise to position and prominence either by strength or cunning or both. That anything significant should be accomplished through the ignominious death of a carpenter of Nazareth was sheer absurdity to the Greek mind.

However, for those who "are being saved" (another present participle) the word of the cross is the dynamic of God. "Being saved" is a present passive participle, indicating once again the inability of those who are being saved to accomplish that end in their own strength. It is God who is acting to save them through His own power (dunamis).

deployed or are already in their two-year deployment through the Nehemiah Project.

Students who choose to plant churches through the Nehemiah Project are required to take two academic classes and one field experience as a part of their M.Div. curriculum in addition to passing the interview and approval process with the North American Mission Board. In return, for two years students receive funds from NAMB in addition to the funds provided by the state convention, local associations, and sponsoring churches. NAMB also provides a benefit package for Nehemiah Project church planters. The two-year field experience can be fulfilled through the 2+2 program or after graduating with an M.Div.

Brown said, "I encourage students to go on one of the North American trips we offer and get among the unchurched to see the need."

The Nehemiah Project is a program focused on training students to plant churches throughout the United States and Canada. The Nehemiah Project began in the fall of 1998 and boasts 41 church planters on the field as of this year.

Missions

Opportunities

The Center for Great Commission Studies has several opportunities listed for students looking to serve on the mission field over the break.

Chaplain Fellowship: Serving God and country

Military Chaplains serve both God and country by leading soldiers in worship services and Bible studies.

Since Chaplain John Gano, a Baptist minister from New York City, served under General George Washington during the Revolutionary War, Baptists have maintained a presence of serving both God and country in the Armed Forces. Title X of the United States Code requires military commanders to provide for the free exercise of religion for all service members. Fulfilling that role, Southern Baptist chaplains have served in all major conflicts for over 150 years. Following this rich tradition, Southern Baptist ministers today serve with all components of the nation's military.

Each year through the North American Mission Board, Southeastern Seminary sends graduates to the Army, Air Force or Navy/Marines. These graduates are fulfilling their call not only to serve the Lord, but also to serve their country. Military Chaplaincy is a ministry that takes chaplains throughout the world: from the sands of the Middle East to the frozen tundra of Norway to the pitching flight decks of the newest aircraft carriers.

These men are called to provide religious programs for military personnel and their families. Military personnel and their families endure frequent transfers from one installation to another. As a result, they are often isolated and limited in active involvement in churches.

Kassian notes the Fatherhood of God at Women's Fellowship Day

Mary Kassian signs copies of her books after chapel on Women's Fellowship Day.

During the annual Women's Fellowship Day at Southeastern, Mary Kassian, president of Alabaster Flask Ministries in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, asked, "Why do we call God

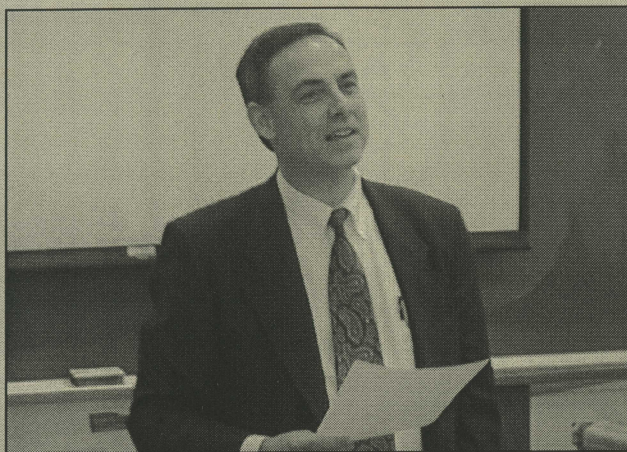

'Father?'"

In her address during chapel, Kassian explained that God wants to relate to humans as Father, that He has put a Father-longing in people's hearts, and that one's heart-longing will only be satisfied by a love relationship with the Father.

Kassian is the author of several books and Bible studies for women.

Theological Thoughts

The personal quality of God: Two faiths compared

God loves you! This is the brash claim of Christianity. The key, in fact, to winning people to a saving faith in Jesus Christ as Savior is based upon this claim.

Ergun Mehmet Caner, Professor of Theology and Church History, The Criswell College, Dallas, Texas

Emir Fethi Caner, Assistant Professor of Church History and Anabaptist Studies, Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Wake Forest, North Carolina

Yet in the Qur'an, no such statement is to be found. Whereas the Bible teaches that God hates sin and is angry with sinners (e.g., Prov. 6:16-19; Jer. 4:4; Rom. 1:18; James 4:4), Islamic scripture affirms that Allah hates sinners: "For Allah loves not transgressors" (surah 2:190).

The greatest difference between the two faiths is the personal quality of God.

Allah sent prophets and messengers to proclaim the truth. In Christianity, God the Father sent His Son to be the truth, to die for sin, and to reconcile men and women to Him. In Islam, it is hoped that salvation is earned through one's good works (surah 3:31). One must love Allah in order for Allah to love that person in return. In Christianity, God loved people first in order to secure their salvation.

There is no security for the believer of Islam. One is left wanting and waiting for the will of Allah to be accomplished. Good works can only give one hope for heaven, but never the guarantee of such. Since God is removed from the equation, the question of whether one is admitted to heaven is left unanswered until the Day of Judgment. For the Christian, judgment came on the cross, an event rejected by Muhammad and Islam.

The ultimate question in any religion addresses an eternal life after death: "What must I do to go to heaven?" In Islam, the answer to this question remains as mysterious and complex as the founder of its religion, Muhammad. As seen here, the Qur'an hints that the believer in Allah can be confident of his or her eternal destiny, but there is no guarantee, even for the most righteous. So Muslims outcome.

Salvation in Islam is ultimately based upon the creed, "Ilaha illa Allah. Muhammad rasul Allah," which is translated, "There is no god but Allah. Muhammad is the messenger of Allah."

This, then, is the only necessary step in becoming a Muslim. Personal, heart-felt conversions are replaced with an intellectual assent of the facts. But one needs also adhere to the six major doctrines of Islam: monotheism, angels, revelation, prophets, judgment, and heaven and hell.

"The ultimate question in any religion addresses an eternal life after death."

strive mightily to get to paradise, but they continually fear that Allah will judge their arrogance and send them to hell. Islamic tradition argues that the guarantee of heaven is as impossible to find as a chaste virgin and pure speech. Consequently, the devout Muslim makes every effort to please Allah and thereby obtain heaven. But fate (kismet) in the hands of the all-powerful Allah will decide the Ergun and Emir Caner were raised by their father to be devout Muslims. By 1982, they had both become Christians and were disowned by their father. Now they both serve the Lord as professors spreading the Good News of Jesus Christ and unveiling the mystery of Islam.

Chaplains

Southern Baptist chaplains serving on full-time active duty help bridge the gap by providing ministry in places where pastors cannot go and where no Southern Baptist churches exist; therefore, chaplains become extensions of the church.

The ministry of a military chaplain is similar to that of the pastor. In addition to being a preacher, teacher, counselor, and administrator, the chaplain serves on the commander's staff as chief advisor on religion, morals, morale, and ethical issues within the command.

According to Rich Lee, Chaplain Fellowship president, the SEBTS Chaplain Fellowship was established to glorify God through chaplain ministry in the United States Armed Forces through personal witness, spiritual and physical accountability, and mobilization of other SEBTS students whom God is calling into the military ministry. If you would like to become involved with the Chaplain Fellowship or are seeking information about ministry in the military, contact Rich Lee at hnrlee@hotmail.com.

Braving the cold wind and rain, this year's intramural flag football championship team trudged across a muddy field to victory. A season that began amidst one of the worst droughts in North Carolina history ended on a cold, rainy evening in Wake Forest.

The championship team consisted of Seth Bible, Anthony Brogan, Paul Colton, Travis Williams, Maurice Ahern, Jason Johnson, Chad Jordan, Rob Satterfield, David McNeese, and Blue Bryan.

Each semester the Student Life Office offers sports to promote health and well-being among the students of Southeastern. The intramural volleyball season is underway, and intramural basketball will begin at the beginning of the spring 2003 semester.

For the Jew first and also for the Greek

Students peruse materials relating to Messianic Jews and Jewish evangelism after the Sabbath worship service in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Ledford Center.

In Romans 1:16, Paul wrote, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God to salvation for everyone who believes, for the Jew first and also for the Greek."

Southeastern's newest student organization, the Messianic Student Fellowship, is prepared to spread the gospel to both the Jew and the Greek.

In their first official event as a student organization the Messianic Student Fellowship held a Sabbath worship service on a Friday evening in November. The service consisted of traditional Jewish prayers and practices as well as testimonies of salvation from Messianic Jewish students.

"This is not a group for Jewish people. This is a group for everyone, a group for believers," said Gary Goldstein, president of the student group. His goal was to reach out to Jewish and Gentile students alike.

The focus of the Sabbath worship service was to enlighten the campus to the presence of Messianic students at Southeastern, to urge everyone to take part in Jewish evangelism, and to help people understand the Jewish roots of the Christian faith.

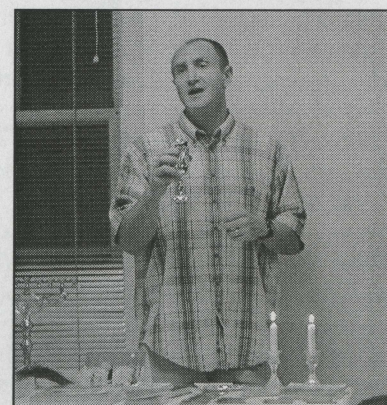

Speaking of the need to share the gospel with the Jewish people, Seth Postell, a Messianic student who spent nine years in Israel, said, "Taking the gospel back to its source means a greater love for all people." As a result, a passion for the Jews leads to a passion for all people to hear the gospel.

David Hecht, who grew up in a Reformed Jewish family told of his salvation experience after struggling with the fact that there is no longer a lamb sacrifice as prescribed in Leviticus.

Throughout the evening, those who spoke during the Sabbath service reminded everyone of Paul's words concerning the Jews in Romans 9-11. Postell noted that those three chapters show the awesome love of God because the people of Israel still exist, thus vindicating the character of God.

Open theism debate comes to a vote at ETS

Several Southeastern Seminary professors attended this year's annual meeting of the Evangelical Theological Society in Toronto during the week of November 18.

On the agenda for this year's meeting, was a vote concerning the membership of open theists in the Society. The question was whether or not open theism denies the inerrancy of Scripture, the foundational doctrine of the Society.

Dr. John Hammett, Associate Professor of Systematic Theology, reported that a vote was taken concerning a resolution to dismiss Clark Pinnock and John Sanders, leading proponents of open theism. The resolution passed by a slim margin, approximately 56 to 44% concerning Pinnock and 53 to 47% concerning Sanders.

Theological Thoughts

What makes a preacher an expositor?

Many pastors consider themselves to be expository preachers, and numerous churchgoers desire to hear expository preaching. Both preachers and laypersons, however, may have vague ideas of what constitutes expository preaching. I would suggest that a preacher must make at least two major commitments to be an expositor.

First, an expository preacher will have a commitment to the expository sermon. In an expository sermon, the subject and structure of the preacher's message reflects the subject and structure of a passage of Scripture. Exposition means putting something out in public view, uncovering it, opening it up, and placing it on display. The word "expose," comes from the compound Latin verb exponere. The root word ponere means "to put." The prefix ex means "out." An expository sermon is one that puts out the meaning of a passage, opening up a portion of Scripture to the listener and allowing him to see its substance. Nehemiah 8:8 provides an example of expository preaching, as Ezra and those who assisted him proclaimed the Word of God to the children of Israel: "So they read distinctly from the book, in the Law of God; and they gave the sense, and helped them to understand the reading." Three elements of expository preaching are evident in this verse. First, "they read distinctly from the book." The Hebrew term translated "distinctly" carries the notion of making something clear. Second, "they gave the sense." To give the sense is to explain insights and principles from the text. Third, they "helped them to understand the reading." They helped the listener to realize the meaning and application of the passage.

Luke 24:27 offers another description of biblical exposition: "And beginning at Moses and all the Prophets, He [Jesus] expounded to them in all the Scriptures the things concerning Himself." The Greek word translated "expounded" means to unfold the message of something, or to explain it. On the road to Emmaus, Jesus opened up the meaning of

"Both preachers and laypersons may have vague ideas of what constitutes expository preaching."

Old Testament passages concerning the Messiah. An expository preacher opens up the Bible, unfolds its meaning, gives its sense, and makes application of it, just as Ezra did to Israel and just as Jesus did on the Emmaus road.

Second, an expository preacher will have a commitment to the expository series. The expository series is a plan by which the preacher systematically preaches through a Bible book or a section of a Bible book.

In his farewell address to the Ephesian elders, Paul said, "I testify to you this day that I am innocent of the blood of all men. For I have not shunned to declare to you the whole counsel of God" (Acts 20:26-27). Preaching expository series through books is among the greatest approaches a pastor can use to teach his congregation the whole counsel of the Word of God. In the expository series, the biblical text itself determines which subjects will be addressed in the pulpit and how each subject will be treated.

If you intend to be a biblical expositor, two things should be present in your preaching plan: (1) you will plan to preach expository sermons, and (2) you will plan to preach expository series.

Messianic

Goldstein also commented on Romans 9-11, stating that 11:11 was the Gentile commission to the Jews.

In light of the recent conflicts and tension in the Middle East, Postell clearly stated where they stood in relation to the current events. He said, "To be pro-Israel and pro-Jewish is not to be anti-Arab." In contrast, being pro-Israel and pro-Jewish should lead one to share the gospel with Arabs as well as Jews.

Even though the Messianic Student Fellowship is still in its formative stages, they already have great plans for next semester. They are planning a Passover celebration, monthly services, and having a Holocaust survivor come to speak.

Goldstein said, "We're trying to worship God the same way Yeshua [Jesus] did 2000 years ago. We're praying the same prayers He prayed and singing the same songs He sang. We want to be a reminder to all believers of the original roots of the faith by embracing our Jewish heritage."

ETS

The resolution originally included Gregory Boyd for consideration; however, he was removed because he did not pay his dues to ETS and is no longer considered an active member.

The resolution will now be taken to the executive committee, which includes Southeastern's Dr. Andreas Köstenberger, for a vote. If two-thirds of the executive committee recommends to dismiss Pinnock and/or Sanders, the resolution will return to the full body of members for a vote at the 2003 meeting in Atlanta. At that point, it will require a two-thirds majority to dismiss Pinnock and/or Sanders.

One hour was allotted for discussion concerning the resolution with a two-minute limit per person.

Many of those in opposition to the resolution said that such action would inhibit the free discussion of ideas within the ETS in the future.

In contrast, Hammett said, "This action will not affect the discussion of ideas. Open theism is outside the bounds of our beliefs, and it is important to make a decision about it."

The June 2002 issue of the Journal of the Evangelical Theological Society is devoted to open theism and includes articles from Pinnock and Sanders as well as articles from noted theologians Bruce Ware and Stanley Grenz.

Dr. Gary Galeotti, Senior Professor of Old Testament said, "The matter of great concern was the closeness of the vote on the openness issue. In our own rank and file, there is a definite shift to the left. This matter is to be understood in regard to inerrancy. Either God's Word is trustworthy, or it is not."
