Dr. John W. Montgomery

Dear Dr. Montgomery:

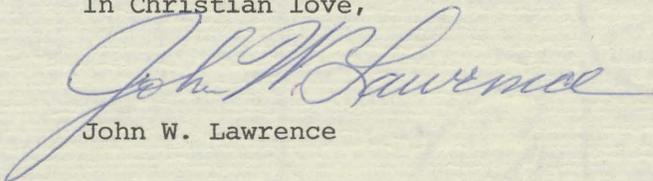

I personally want to thank you for the excellent week you have given us here at MSB. The lectures have been at a level where the students can grasp what you are saying--and this is great. We thank God for the work you are doing in this realm. It was great also to be with you last evening, and do appreciate your spending that time for our benefit.

Enclosed you will find Ohio's Trojan Horse that I mentioned to you last evening. I am glad to give you the book and would appreciate if you find a moment of time how you feel about his argument from a legal standpoint. Perhaps you have missed it because I noticed that the publisher is Bob Jones University Press, and it might be said: "Can any thing good come out of Bob Jones." But let us not forget that even a stopped clock is right twice a day.

I would like to give you also a copy of The Six Trials of Christ that was produced here by our radio department. Unfortunately the proof reading was poorly done, but if you do have time to read it, I too would appreciate knowing of any inaccuracies that you can see within its discussion.

Thank you again for a great week.

In Christian love,

John W. Lawrence
