During July and August annual evaluation sessions were conducted by all Administrative Officers. These were followed by a series of similar sessions involving the six members of the Executive Council and led by President Lolley.

ANNUAL EVALUATIONS

A successful Summer School closed on July 31 with 262 enrolled in Session II. Many of these were entering students hoping to get a head start on their seminary studies.

SUMMER SCHOOL
SESSION II

A leave of absence has been granted to Ben Philbeck, Professor of Hebrew and Old Testament. Following several recurring physical symptoms, Ben underwent a series of tests during the summer. The tests discovered a malignant brain tumor. The Seminary family has reaffirmed its bond of love and support for Ben and Jo during this critical time in their lives.

The Faculty met on Mon. and Tues., Aug. 17-18 to prepare for the new academic year. Participating in their first workshop were Professors Fred Grissom, Roy De Brand, Elizabeth Barnes, Keat Wiles and Kurt Richardson.

FACULTY WORKSHOP

On Aug. 19 new and returning students began the process for beginning the new year. Under the leadership of Registrar Carson Brisson, the process flowed smoothly. All new students participated in several sessions of the Faculty-led Entry Level Experience.

ORIENTATION/
MATRICULATION

The first-ever retreat for Student Council Officers was held on campus Aug. 24 to plan and prepare for the new year. Beverly Hardgrove from Conway, S.C. is the Council president.

STUDENT
RETREAT

Southeastern's 37th year began on Tues., Aug. 25, with Opening Convocation at 10 am. Highlighting the event were the Convocation address by President Lolley, the signing of the Seminary's Articles of Faith by new professors Elizabeth Barnes and Roy De Brand; and the presentation of the Dev. Council Award for Faculty Excellence to George Braswell, professor of missions and world religions.
