UPDATE

Three of the seminary's new trustees attended the orientation event on campus September 1-2. Chairman Charles Horton joined administrative persons and faculty for the two-day orientation, climaxed by the annual Employee Appreciation Banquet in Ledford Center.

NEW TRUSTEE
ORIENTATION

The main lounge portions of Ledford Center, along with Cannon Gymnasium have been open for use since the beginning of the Fall semester. The fitness center is now ready for occupancy. Landscaping will be completed within the next ten days.

CENTER

The dedication of the new facility is scheduled during the Fall meeting of the trustees, October 14.

Two conferences for Directors of Missions in North Carolina were held on campus September 8 and September 15. More than 25 persons attended from associations all across the state. The conferences featured dialogue with seminary personnel on practicalization of the seminary training process and how the seminary's graduates can better serve the local churches and associations.

DOM CONFERENCES

On September 16, sixteen Southeasterners were awarded Raymond B. Brown Scholarships. The Brown Scholarships are the seminary's most prestigious awards amounting to $1200 for the academic year. The recipients are among the very best students in the "feeder system schools."

BROWN SCHOLARS

Dr. Milton Ferguson delivered the Page Lectures September 30-October 1 in Binkley Chapel. His two lectures were entitled: "The Challenge of Evil and Suffering" and "A Faith Response." Dr. Ferguson has been president at Midwestern Seminary since 1973.
